

Can you think of a more 'POSITIVE' (not more polite) way of saying these things?

"Don't throw your food on the floor"
"Stop running around in here..."
"No hitting..."
"Don't stand on the books like that"
"Don't bring the bimbos inside"
"Don't take your socks off"
"That's too loud for inside, please don't shout like that"
"You didn't wash your hands"
"Don't be mean to Nimrod"

What's wrong with?

"Play nicely"
"Line up to go inside"
"We don't play with toy guns here..."
"Colour in neatly"
"Everyone sit nicely..."

Tick the Ultimatums and threats below which are acceptable to use... cross the ones which are not!

"if you don't eat your vegetables you can't have pasta"	"if you don't sit nicely you will leave the table"
"Your mum will be very upset if I tell her you have been doing this"	"If you don't join in properly, I will take you to the rest basket"
"I'm going to tell Kinga if you don't stop that now"	"If you push him again you will go inside"

And finally.... (on the back)

What is the difference between 'baby sitting' and 'effective early years practice'? (List 5 differences)
